ADMIRAL DEWEY PASSED AWAY IN WASHINGTON

Hero of Manila Bay, Once Familiar Figure on the Streets of This City, Died at the Age of 79 Years After Short Illness Tuesday Evening

Washington, Jan. 16.—George Dewey, Admiral of the American Navy, passed away at his home in this city at 5:56 o'clock this evening after a ten day's illness following a general breakdown. Mrs. Dewey and his son, George Dewey, Jr., were at the bedside of the Admiral as the end came.

Next to Montpelier, Vt., his birthplace, this city of Portsmouth claims the right to share in the memory of the Admiral of the American Navy, George Dewey, the hero of Manila Bay, who passed away at his home in Washington last evening at the age of 79 years, and who was at one time a familiar figure in our streets. Fifty years ago Admiral Dewey, then a lieutenant, although a seasoned officer by his experiences in the Civil War, was stationed at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. It was while here that Admiral Dewey met Miss Susie Goodwin, daughter of Ichabod Goodwin, the War Governor of New Hampshire. She afterward became his wife, they having married here Oct. 24, 1837, and for a time resided in the old Goodwin homestead in this city.

There are many men still in the city who remember Admiral Dewey, many who were classmates with his son, George Dewey, Jr., and many living here are descendants of men who served on ships in the Civil War under the young officer. A few years ago Admiral Dewey visited this city and delivered the oration at the unveiling of the tablet on the Commandant's House at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, which commemorated the death of Admiral Farragut who passed away there.

Mrs. Susie Goodwin Dewey died in this city and is buried in the Goodwin lot in the Proprietor's Cemetery.

George Dewey was born in a New England farmhouse just outside the township of Montpelier, Vt., on Dec. 26, 1837. He attended the district school where his disposition proved adventurous. At the age of 14 he en-

The strict discipline and the continual study at the academy had a tendency to make the boys rebellious. On one occasion Dewey and four of his associates were arrested and or-

AWARDS SHELL CONTRACTS TO ENGLAND

Navy Department Accepts
British Firm's Bid on 16-and 14-Inch Shells.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The U. S. government has been forced to go to one of the belligerent countries to secure its sixteen and fourteen inch shells for the navy.

The navy department today awarded to Harland Limited of London, contracts for 3000 sixteen inch shells at $513, and 4,500 fourteen inch shells at $356 each. The delivery is to be made in sixteen months. American firms submitted much larger bids and demanded a much longer period for delivery.

ANTI STRIKE BILL DEAD

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, Jan. 17.—President Wilson's strike prevention proposal is dead. There will be no attempt to reconsider. This was made plain today by administration leaders following the senate committee adverse report on the measure designed to make strikes unlawful pending government investigation.

The committee practically agreed today to report a bill put forward by the Republican Progressives, having merely government investigation of labor disputes, but carrying no prohibition against strikes or lockouts.

THAW STILL VERY ILL Not Recovering as Fast as Physicians Expected.

(Special to The Herald)
Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—Harry K. Thaw is not recovering from his attempt at suicide as rapidly as the physicians expected. It will be several weeks, they report today, before he will leave the hospital and can answer the charges pending against him in New York.

GERMAN RAIDER TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Reported to Have Sunk Twenty-one Merchant Ships in South Atlantic.

(Special to The Herald)

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 17.—Dispatches received here today bore the uncontradicted report that a German raider has sunk 21 merchant ships in the South Atlantic and is still at large. Another report was that seven ships had been sunk and nine captured. The raider sunk an English ship, it was said, without warning, causing the loss of 100 lives. Survivors of ships destroyed by the raider have been landed at Pernambuco by a Japanese ship.

Among the ships reported as sunk is the Voltaire, off the Brazilian coast. This statement is doubted owing to the fact that the ship was bound from England to New York and there was no reason why she should be so far south.

The Brazilian Minister of Marine has undertaken an investigation to see if the neutrality has been violated. The raider is said to be the Vindex. There are three ships of the name of Vindex listed in Lloyd's; two are German and the other Swedish. The raider, it is said, bore no name and was painted black and armed with 12 rifles and four torpedo tubes.

Among the overdue ships which may have been sunk are the steamship Dramatic, Radnorshire, Samara, Dryna, Ortega, Harmerhus, Newportland, Nouarant, Scampel, San Georgia, Nessor Kint George, Yanon-dale, St. Helder, Michenet, St. Paul, Snowden-Grange and Gally.

Some of the survivors were on the raider 23 days before being sent ashore.

London, Jan. 17.—Twelve Allied vessels have fallen prey to a new German raider. Official announcement to this effect was made by the Admiralty today.

That eight British and two French ships have been sunk and that two other British ships were captured, is now stated. Prize crews were put on the two captured ships and it is likely that they too have been converted into merchant cruisers and are now preying upon commerce somewhere upon the high seas.

The Admiralty in announcing the loss said that nothing was known as to the whereabouts of the captured ships.

The raiders, fully as daring as the Moewe or the Endom, have managed to elude all of the patrols of the British and French war ships that have been scouring the sea. For many weeks there have been reports that a raider has been busy, but the "Flying Dutchman" has always been able to get away. It is believed that many of the merchant ships that fell victim to this German hawk of the seas, were sunk in the South Atlantic off the coast of South America.

The fate of the crews is in doubt, but it is probably that some of the men have been landed by this time.

Whether the raider escaped from Germany or whether she was fitted out in some southern port, is not known and it is not certain that she has a base on the American coast. It is possible for the vessel to avoid land by securing supplies from the victims. One of the ships which is believed to have fallen a victim of the German raider is the Voltaire. This vessel is now two months overdue.

LEAK HEARING TAKES LEGAL TURN

Committee Postpone Today's Session to Get More Power and to Employ Counsel

Washington, Jan. 17.—Determined to bring to light of day every possible scrap of information having any remote connection with a possible information leak from Washington, the committee called off today's hearing in order to secure congressional permission to obtain counsel for the examination. Every witness who was to testify today was warned to remain in the city ready to appear before the committee tomorrow. The hundreds of people who jammed into the big hearing room prepared to hear dramatic disclosures from the lips of Mrs. Ruth Thompson Visconti, the woman named by Lawson as his authority for bringing the White House into the investigation, evidenced their displeasure when the hearing was called off by Rep. Garrett on behalf of the committee.

The committee members, regardless of politics believe little can be accomplished unless legal counsel is obtained to examine the witnesses. To date the investigation has been conducted in a haphazard way. The earlier attitude of Democratic members of the committee was that the inquiry was not worthy of serious attention while Republican members have been accused of playing politics. The net result has been that there has been little concentration on the important evidence introduced by Thomas W. Lawson, Secretary Lansing, Joseph Tamm, the Wall Street bankers and brokers and others who have appeared.

The postponement indicated that every detail of the charges will be sifted to the bottom and that the procedure will exactly follow the lines of an exhaustive legal investigation.

WARDEN OSBORNE STILL ON THE U. S. PRISON SHIP

Living on 20-Cent Bill of Fare—Will Do First Hand
Labor at the Prison.

Thomas Mott Osborne, the former warden of Sing Sing prison, who was brought aboard the prison ship Southery on Tuesday under the name of Tom Brown as a deserter, is still on the floating prison with his associates, Prof. John McCormick and Harry G. Luskey.

On Tuesday night Osborne was given a hammock on the forward deck where he slept till 5:30 this morning. So far the ex-warden and the other two men from Bowdoin college have not experienced any hard work outside the routine aboard the ship. They are working separately about the ship and have at no time been together since they put on the prison rig. They participated in the first prison bill of fare on Tuesday night for which the government allows the sum of 20 cents per day. This small amount for feeding the court martial men furnishes excellent food never-the-less, from the fact that the government purchases large amounts under contract. Eggs, however, have been dropped from the list owing to the high price and scarcity. It is expected that the three prisoners will be sent to the naval prison on Friday or Saturday and will then get their first dose of hard labor and real prison life. They may hit the rockpile or be put in with the several convicts who are now cutting and storing the winter ice crop from the yard ponds.

First dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" relieves all gripe misery.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and sniffing! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end gripe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops snoring, discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only 25 cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

NOT WHAT THEY APPEAR TO BE.

"My dear, those six clergymen's daughters in 'Very Good Eddie' aren't all clergymen's daughters at all. They're just nice girls from small towns—I've met people who knew two or three of them. One of them is from Norfolk and her father is no more a minister than mine is. But of course it sounds awfully well in the papers, and I judge for yourself on the evening of Jan. 30, at the Colonial."

A MILLION FOR THIS YARD

Sec. Daniels Tells Congress
What He Could Do With $12,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Secretary Daniels laid before the house naval committee today his tentative plan for spending $12,000,000 to equip government yards for shipbuilding to hastening the strengthening of the navy. He has $8,000,000 for the purpose and has for an additional $4,000,000. The total would be distributed as follows:

Philadelphia yard, ways and shops for two battle cruisers, $5,000,000; New York yard, ways for one battle cruiser and necessary additional equipment, $3,000,000; Norfolk yard, ways and additional equipment for one battle cruiser and two scout cruisers, $6,000,000; Puget Sound yard, ways and equipment for one battle cruiser and one scout cruiser, $3,000,000; Boston, Charleston and Portsmouth yards, equipment for gunboat, destroyer or submarine construction $1,000,000.

The secretary estimated that the Philadelphia plant would be equipped to lay the first battle cruiser keel in 15 months and that it would take 18 months to equip the Norfolk and Puget Sound yards. He declared also that even if all of the authorized ships could be placed with private builders, it would be necessary to fit the government yards to help out on the 1918 program unless there was to be serious delay.

Asst. Secretary Roosevelt declared the only substantial advantage the government would have in building these ships in its own yards would be on the profit factor. He insisted, however, that under any fair comparison building in government yards usually was faster and a little cheaper than work on sister ships in private yards.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry,
Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels, and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also the means of freeing the blood of this impurity.

In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"

By Thomas Dixon. Life is built upon realism, not romance; this is the theme of "The Foolish Virgin," Thomas Dixon's famous novel that has been screened as Miss Clara Kimball Young's second Selznick Pictures offering. The story deals with a young girl whose ideas of life are founded on the romantic works of fiction which she is so fond of reading. She is deceived into marrying a man with criminal tendencies, who, possessed of a lust for money becomes a burglar. Her efforts to redeem the man she loves lead to many intensely dramatic situations with a powerful climax. Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Colonial.

WOMAN CHECKS RUNAWAY HORSE AT THE B. & M. DEPOT

Miss Edith Chasin, cashier for the George W. Armstrong Dining Room and News company at the Boston and Maine depot, figured in a bit of good work on Tuesday morning and displayed rare courage when she checked a runaway horse attached to the private carriage of the commanding officer of Fort Constitution. The animal took fright from the noise of the train and attracted Miss Chasin's attention by his lively prancing and she realized that he would soon start to make a getaway. She hurried from her desk and made no hesitation in grabbing him by the head just as he started on a rampage. She held him good and hard until the driver appeared on the scene who was greatly surprised to find the woman in charge of the frightened steed.

Miss Chasin is a great lover of the horse and for several years handled the reins over Miss McClure, one of the best local horse women known to the race tracks in this section.

Mrs. Hugh W. Greene of Portsmouth and New Castle, died suddenly on Tuesday morning at 50 Commonwealth Avenue, Bohem. Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock at the residence of Dr. T. W. Luce, 82 Court street.

"ESTABROOK SACRIFICED HIS STATE"

Charges Made Against N. H. Republican National Committeeman.

New York, Jan. 15.—Efforts to bring about harmony between Republicans and Progressives here today produced as their first, conspicuous result a stormy protest from George W. Perkins and Everett Colby, Progressive leaders, that Republican leaders were not acting in good faith.

Chairman William R. Wilcox of the Republican national committee, called together a sub-committee of the Republican executive committee appointed yesterday to draw a plan of co-operation between Republicans and Progressives. The result of this meeting was the issuance of resolutions adopted for the purpose of adopting a supplementary committee to be composed of Republicans and Progressives to take a vote in party affairs. This would take the place of joint Republican-Progressive campaign committee which went out of existence after the election.

Almost simultaneously with Mr. Wilcox's announcement of this plan at the Union League club, Mr. Perkins at his home around the corner issued a statement attacking the Republican executive committee and Mr. Wilcox's sub-committee on harmony but at the same time defending Mr. Wilcox.

Mr. Perkins called for a meeting of the entire Republican national committee to work out harmony plans, declaring that the sub-committee on harmony of which Mr. Wilcox is the chairman, was in the hands of the "Old Guards."

"The election of a vice-chairman was accomplished after four members of the committee, Messrs. Hart of Kentucky, Howell of Nebraska, Parsons of New York and Chairman Wilcox had protested," Mr. Perkins' statement said and after a motion by these gentlemen to refer the selection of a vice chairman of the national committee it had been voted down.

"They proposed to send the statement continues that a vice-chairman of their own selection was installed. They performed every act they could think of to button up as tightly as possible in the hands of their own little clique the entire organization of the party."

"The men who did this were Hemenway of Indiana, leader of the coalition; Martin of Virginia, Estabrook of New Hampshire, who were members of the executive committee, and ex-Governor Gillett of California holding the proxy of Executive Committeeman Crocker of California, Mr. McArthur of Oregon with the proxy of Executive Committeeman Williams of Oregon and Olaf Glenson of New York voting the proxy of executive committeeman Sam Perkins of the state of Washington."

"No one of the three last mentioned men was a member of the national committee of the Republican party. They are affiliated with the reactionary wing of the Republican party. Mr. Glenson is the acknowledged representative of William Barnes Jr., of New York. Mr. Gilbert is a pronounced reactionary Republican of California, and the bitter opponent of Hiram Johnson. Hemenway and his associates were careful not to trust these proxies to liberal-minded Republicans."

Hemenway and his associates, the statement goes on, have been secretly circulating stories reflecting on Chairman Wilcox charging him with responsibility for having lost the national election, whereas they, themselves are solely responsible for Hughes' defeat. Mr. Crocker was "notoriously responsible" for the loss of California. It asserts, Sam Perkins by his "shortsighted" management of affairs, lost Washington, while Mr. Estabrook "by his ignoring of the Progressive voters of New Hampshire, sacrificed that state."

When Mr. Wilcox was shown this statement he refused to comment. A statement declaring the charges of Mr. Perkins were unfounded was issued tonight by James A. Hemenway, F. W. Estabrook and former Governor Gillett. They declared it was endorsed by John T. Adams, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and other members of the committee. The statement follows in part:

"There is no justification for the interpretation which Mr. Perkins places upon yesterday's action of the executive committee. He challenges the selection of John T. Adams as the vice chairman of the committee, in the selection of Mr. Adams there was no slight intended to the Progressives, nor was there any given. His choice was based on the fact that the November election showed that there is need of organization work in the West and that his knowledge of conditions there and his political experience that make him well fitted for this work."

"At yesterday's meeting of the 14 members of the committee only four expressed themselves in opposition to an election at this time. Upon the question of Mr. Adams' election, he was chosen by practically an unanimous vote. It is difficult to understand how anyone who is unselfishly interested in the success of the Republican party could challenge the result."

NOTES FROM THE LEGISLATURE

Speaker Morrill announced the permanent tellers Tuesday. Mr. Thomas of Farmington will count the heads in the second division; Mr. Fairbank of Newport in the third; Mr. French of Monmouth in the fourth and Mr. Bartlett of Portsmouth in the fifth.

A bill introduced in the house by Representative Sanderson of Portsmouth, would prevent the establishment of any asylum or sanitarium for the reception or confinement of persons of unound mind, by any person or private corporation without a license from the state board of health, under pain of a $500 fine of imprisonment for one year, or both. This measure, it is understood, is a result of the recent Cowles case in Portsmouth.

The senate judiciary gave two hearings on Tuesday. One was on Senator Perley's bill providing for indemnifying a holder of a worthless check or order and will send in a favorable report tomorrow. The other hearing was on Senator Pagow's bill, designed to prevent the intimidation of voters and to keep the courts free from political activity. The bill brought forth a more or less spirited discussion, but no action was taken by the committee and he was the principal supporter of his measure.

Representative George H. Sanderson of Portsmouth offered a bill on Tuesday providing for the appointment of a commission to consider the freeing of the Hampton River bridge, between Hampton and Seabrook and making it a part of the East Side state highway. The commission is to report to the next session of the legislature.

MUST MEET BIG DEFICIT

Administration Plans for Extra Tax on Inheritance and Incomes.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Administration plans for meeting the Treasury deficit at the end of the next fiscal year took the form of a definite program today, embracing increases in the inheritance tax, a new tax on excess profits of corporations and partnerships, and a bond issue of $289,000,000.

A bill including these proposals, and bearing the endorsement of President Wilson and Sec. McAdoo, will be framed at once and pressed in the House.

The increase in the revenue under the plan is expected to be more than $500,000,000 annually, and, if it fails to take care of the deficit, a $100,000,000 issue of Treasury certificates of indebtedness may be decided on.

As agreed to informally by Democrats of the Ways and Means committee and approved by the President and Secretary of the Treasury, the excess profits tax would be at the rate of 8 or 10 per cent on such returns in excess of 8 per cent on investment, and would yield something over $200,000,000; the inheritance tax would be raised to 1.1-2 instead of 1 per cent on minimum estates, and from 10 to 15 per cent on those of more than $15,000,000 yielding an additional revenue of about $22,000,000; and the bond issue of $200,000,000 would be designated expressly for emergency expenses such as the Mexican trouble, the Alaskan Railway, the new armor and nitrate plants, purchase of the Danish West Indies, and appropriations for the Shipping Board.

In this form the program will be submitted by Democrats of the committee to their Republican colleagues, who will be asked to make any suggestions immediately so the measure may be brought into the House. Democratic Leader Kitchin expects it to pass within a week.

PALMER-HILL.

At the Union Baptist church, Millville, N. B., Wednesday evening, Nov. 29, Miss Macy M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, and Charles E. Palmer were united in marriage by Rev. J. F. Kestead. The bride entered the church, supported by her father, as Miss Anna Hall of Acadia College played the wedding march. The bride looked charming in a handsome gown of beaded chiffon over white satin. The bridal pair stood beneath a beautiful arch erected near the altar. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and was filled with relatives and friends, who, after the ceremony, wished them every happiness. The happy pair enjoyed their automobile and showers of rice and confetti and rode to their residence on Brook street where a dainty lunch was served. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. James I. MacDonald of 120 Thornton street, this city.

Does Prohibition Prohibit?

"The worst thing about prohibition has been that it has not prohibited. Areas of dryness have been surrounded by wetness. And partial and incomplete enforcement has developed a train of collateral evils, outweighing in viciousness the admitted evils of the liquor traffic. Corruption in its worst forms has often dogged the footsteps of prohibition; and the conviction has been born that it did more harm than good."

—New York Globe.

To the New Hampshire Voters:

It is Simple Logic that the whole Intent of Prohibition is to Prohibit the use of Intoxicating Liquors. If, Then, This Prohibition is Not brought about by Prohibitory Laws, no Good End is served by Adoption, and the Governmental Functions are Weakened by Nullification of its Provisions and Failure to Bring About the results Intended.

In the Chicago Tribune of September 16, 1916, J. Frank Hanly, Prohibition candidate for President, is quoted as saying:

"You Cannot Get This Issue (Prohibition) Settled By States"

The New Hampshire Anti-Saloon League has announced its intent to again attempt to repeal the local option law of the State. Regardless of the Fact that Governor Spaulding, an Earnest Supporter of national prohibition, Opposed the Repeal of Our Present Effective Law; that Governor Keyes Believes "such a step might be Attended with Doubtful results," and Disregarding the Fact the Ongoing legislature, Voted Overwhelmingly Against a Repeal of the license law, and that the Movement for repeal receives No Encouragement from the Influential Press of New Hampshire, the Anti-Saloon League is Forcing the issue at this time Against the Advice of many Warm Supporters of Temperance Legislation in this state.

A series of advertisements—of which this is the first—has been prepared for publication in the press of New Hampshire, Defending the Present law. In these advertisements Evidence Will Be Presented in Support of the Contention that prohibition is Today as Ineffective a Legislative Remedy for the Evils of intemperance as the History of the past Records it Ever to Have Been.

These articles are Not Prepared with any Purpose to either Condemn or Approve the use of spirituous or malt liquors. No question of Use is involved in this Discussion, as the Proposed legislation has to do with the Legal Method of Control and Sale. It is therefore Fair to Make Plain at This Time that the Endorsements and Editorials which will be printed in succeeding articles, Are Not to be Construed as Favoring the use of liquors, but Relate Solely to the legal methods of controlling the sale. It is a question which Finds Earnest and High-Minded Citizens with Opposite views as to the Better and most effective method. Hundreds of Earnest and Sincere Temperance Workers of New Hampshire are Warm Supporters of the Present law and against a Change at This Time. A discussion of the Principle involved Should Not be Attended with Rancor or Feeling, and in This series of advertisements it is Not Proposed to publish any Testimony That can Reflect on, or is Unfair to Any Individual or Group.

If the Agitation is Forced on the present legislature Against the Advice of many of the Leading citizens of New Hampshire, there is Little Question but its verdict will be in Favor of a Continuance of the law. The question was thoroughly Discussed by the last legislature both in Committee and on the Floor of the House, and the Proposition to repeal was Notably Defeated. Perhaps the result cannot Better be described than to Reprint an editorial in the Manchester Mirror, March 4th, 1915.

"The action of the legislature Wednesday in sustaining by a vote of 126 to 144 the present license law, was commendable and we believe will meet with the Approval of the public."

In a Fair and Square battle, with Arguments ably presented on each side of the proposition, the victory was won for the law by a majority of 82.

"The men from the city of Manchester, with the exception of four, represented the views and wishes of a great majority of the people of this city. Only a few months ago the legal voters of Manchester on a free and fair vote on this question decided by a majority of practically 4,000 votes in favor of the present law."

"The Mirror does not believe that any man who Voted for the Present and Rigorously Enforced license law will have to make any Apologies to his constituents. This measure has done more to bring practical Improvements in the sale and Control of liquor of any law that was Ever Written on the statute books of this state."

"Towns and cities that vote to Continue under prohibition have prohibition, and the Most Satisfactory Enforcement of it that has ever been obtained in the state. Communities that vote for license have the business controlled and regulated and those who sell liquor are made to live up to the very letter of the law."

"The fact that 226 members of the house took the same view, as expressed by the Mirror showed that they too looked at this proposition from a practical instead of theoretical side."

In these advertisements which will appear weekly, will be some interesting testimony. Your Attention and Consideration are invited.

Respectfully,

New Hampshire State Association of Licensees.

Portsmouth, N. H., Wednesday, January 17, 1917.

A Good Samaritan.

In these days, when organizations are increasing at a rate that would be astonishing to any one not familiar with the prevailing social, political and industrial conditions, it is pleasant to read of the addition to the long and steadily growing list of a body organized for an unostentatious, but most useful and commendable work.

The home of this new organization is Chicago and it is known as the Chicago Social Club. Its name might imply that its members were seeking a new avenue for social diversion, but such is by no means the case. It has been formed for actual service of a most praiseworthy and valuable sort, and if it follows faithfully the course that has been mapped out thousands will rise up and call it blessed.

It will be the work of this organization to bring strangers in the great city into touch with people worth knowing, thus dispelling the loneliness that oppresses a stranger in a big city if he or she be not of those who are able to make their way among strangers without difficulty. There are those who can do this, but they are in the great minority, and young women especially who go to the cities by thousands every year to earn their living will find such an organization as this Chicago Social Club very helpful and comforting.

"Let us find you a friend to make your life in our city happier," is the slogan of this society, one of whose officers states what is well known to all people of experience when she says: "People in the big cities draw away from each other. You can live in Chicago for years and not know your next door neighbor. Women especially have trouble in making desirable friends in a city where they are unacquainted. That is the condition we are trying to alleviate."

This is a pure and high motive and none can fail to wish such an organization godspeed. In every big city there are thousands of young women who are away from home, and whose yearning for proper companionship can be known only to those who have been similarly placed. To bring these young women into acquaintanceship with people with whom it is pleasant and safe to associate is a most praiseworthy work, a work that cannot fail to bring solid satisfaction to those who perform it as well as immeasurable benefits to those for whom it is performed.

Success and long life to the Chicago Social Club, and may it have many imitators.

A physician in a large eastern city suggests that it would be well to place all the doctors of the city on salary to be paid by the tax payers, and that it should be the duty of the doctors to "keep all the people well all the time." If the doctors could guarantee to do this the tax payers would jump at the proposition, but in view of the facts and the rapidly with which the number of municipal salaries is increasing the chances are against the immediate introduction of municipal doctoring.

How funny will seem all this talk about crushing Germany industrially after the close of the war when the time comes that Germany offers a chance to make a dollar by buying of her. Then will come the greatest exhibition of short memories in the history of the world. And the world will be the better for it. Vengeful industrial antagonism and world peace do not travel hand in hand.

There is an agitation in Canada for absolute prohibition to be continued until three years after the close of the war. Many of the provinces are now "dry," and the latest movement to clean up the whole dominion. Premier Borden promises the movement serious consideration. The world upheaval is causing a mighty commotion in the camp of Demon Rum.

There is no weather extreme that does not serve some useful purpose. The last few days have been very favorable to the icemen, and, anomalous as it may seem, they will be just as highly favored by 90 in the shade next summer.

The notorious Harry K. Thaw is once more in the limelight. His reputation is beyond injury, but those of the New York courts and "scientists" are not enhanced by this latest development.

China is reported to be ready to join the United States in an effort to bring about permanent world peace. Now look out for the shouters against the "Chinification" of this country.

The liquor interests at this trying time may find a small grain of comfort in the fact that Porto Rico is standing out against prohibition.

Great quantities of rabbits are being consumed in Chicago, the price being from 20 to 25 cents a pound. After a few months of this diet the city should bound forward more rapidly than ever.

GERMANS

REPULSED BY FRENCH

On Somme and Verdun Front Germans Are Thrown Back.

Paris, Jan. 17.—Attacks by the Germans on the Somme and the Verdun front last night were repulsed, the War Office reported today. On the Meuse French patrols entered German trenches.

NEW QUARTERS IN CIRCULATION

Coin Is of the New Design and Very Artistic.

The new quarters reached here today and the banks are distributing them. A handsome full length figure of Liberty in low relief appears on the face of the new coins. She is built like a grailon athlete and is striding with vigorous step through a narrow gateway. Her neck and breast are bare. On her left arm upraised she bears a shield with the coat of arms of the United States. In her right hand, outstretched, is an olive branch, symbolical of peace. She apparently believes in preparedness, for her face is turned toward the shield.

Along the edge, at the top of the coin, in large letters, is the word "Liberty." The motto, "In God We Trust," appears on the gateway with the 13 stars representing the original colonies. On the threshold appears the date, 1917.

On the reverse in low relief is a figure of the American eagle in full flight, with wings outstretched. Above the eagle are the words, "United States of America." Just below, between the wings, is the motto, "E Pluribus Unum." At the bottom edge of the coin are the words, "Quarter Dollar." Thirteen stars about the edge represent the original colonies.

Comment was generally in favor of the new design, the work of Herman Atkins McNeil, sculptor. Owing to the limited supply only two coins were allowed each applicant yesterday, except in the case of banks, which were allowed $50 worth in cities and $25 in towns.

MYSTIC ROSICRUCIANS TO COLONIZE WYOMING.

Meopcroft, Wyo., Jan. 17.—"The Rosicrucians are planning to invade and colonize northeastern Wyoming." It sounds like a war bulletin, but it isn't. It merely means that about fifty members of the order of Rosicrucians, said by numbers to be the oldest secret mystic organization in the world, have arrived here as the advance guard of a large body of colonists.

They are taking advantage of the four hundred and forty acre homestead law to establish themselves in this section of the country. Practical co-operative methods will be followed in the development of the colony.

The ancient and mystic order is said to have been established in Egypt in the reign of Thothmes, 1541 B. C., and devoted to the study of philosophy, science and the arts, as well as religion. It has a membership of six million, including some of the world's master minds, such as Lord Bacon and Rulwer Lytton. It claims to possess scientific knowledge which is revealed only to members.

The primary aims of the Organized Charities are: First, relief; second, investigation; third, rehabilitation or restoration to normal conditions.

In charity work, when a case is reported to the office, a visit is made to the family or individual at once. If there appears to be actual suffering, relief is given immediately by supplying food, fuel, clothing and medical treatment when necessary. The funds to cover the expense of relief assistance are obtained from various sources such as the general fund of the association from churches, benevolent individuals and associations, county commissioners, city overseer of the poor, State Board of Charities, etc.

Once the immediate wants of the case are provided for, a thorough and systematic investigation is made into the causes that brought on the distress and suffering. This investigation consumes much time and patient work. It frequently involves personal inquiries, correspondence that covers weeks and often months. While the causes of poverty and misery are being determined, various steps are taken to remedy them, and the causes are followed closely.

Some of the cases encountered in this city during the last six months are: Unemployment, under-employment, illness, old age, feeble-mindedness, intemperance, desertion and non-support, immorality, delinquency (juvenile and adult), illegitimacy, bad housing conditions, and home conditions, dependent and neglected children, unmarried mothers.

While immediate relief is of the first importance, and is always so treated, yet the supplementary work of investigation and application of remedy for the underlying causes, has more lasting and far-reaching effect. Such work cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It may be without effect. It may have only partial effect, or it may result in complete success. In any event the efforts put forth to reconstruct and rehabilitate families are well worth any small expense they may cost. The thoughtful student may easily see the direct result, in a financial sense, of the work already done in the short life of the Organized Charities of Portsmouth.

The original start was made possible by a fund collected by the Portsmouth Ledge of Elks. The commissioners of Rockingham county have furnished office space, light and heat, and have co-operated in many other ways. The police department has always been ready to lend assistance.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Shipyards Not Satisfied
A protest against reduction in overtime pay for shipfitters at the Boston navy yard and apparent discrimination against the Boston men, was presented to Secretary Daniels on Tuesday by Representative Olney.

Heretofore, it was explained, these workers in all government shipyards have been paid double time after ten hours of work, while now it is proposed to reduce the Boston yard men to time and a half and leave the men in all other yards on the double time basis.

Cannot Find Mechanics
Lack of skilled mechanics is delaying work on the supply ship bridge at the Charleston navy yard. The ship is almost completed, only the installing of the boilers and shafting and the painting of the ship remaining. Most of the workmen had to be shifted to the battleships due to leave the yard between next Monday and February 1.

Flags Half Mast
All flags on the ships at the yard were half mast today as a mark of respect to the late Admiral George Dewey.

On Sick List
Lee Minard, machinist in the supply department is confined to his home by illness.

Ran Ashore on the Island
A large power boat of the North Carolina ran ashore early this morning on Pumpkin Island where it remained until high water this afternoon. The bottom was slightly damaged.

More Junk for Smelting
A carload of brass scrap amounting to 70,000 pounds from the Norfolk yard were received today for smelting.

Stores for Hannibal
A large lot of stores for the U. S. S. Hannibal were sent to New Orleans today for further shipment to that ship at the Cuban survey grounds.

Board of Inquiry
A board of inquiry has been in session for the past two days at the yard in connection with the death of Otto Harppe, a petty officer, who met death following an accident in this city a month ago.

Using Broughton Dock
The navy ferry 1048 is using the J. H. Broughton dock while the work of dredging is going on at the Daniel street landing.

ated to appear before the court at Woodstock, charged with disorderly conduct for standing outside the window of a church where hymns were being sung and breaking up the meeting by a rival chant of coon songs. Dewey's father heard of this and ordered his son to return home immediately.

Competitive examinations were not held at this time for the candidates to either West Point or Annapolis. It was necessary to obtain the favor of a representative in congress. The influence of Dewey's father secured an appointment for his son. It happened that the first vacancy occurred at Annapolis and in the fall of 1854 Dewey took up his studies at the naval academy.

His career at no time in his student life showed any marked ability for study. He was good in mathematics, poor in history and geography. He was graduated on June 18, 1858, being one of the fifteen who finished out of a class of sixty.

After graduating Dewey was assigned to duty on the Wabash, a steam frigate of over four thousand tons, for two years experience in practical cruising, a requirement of the academy's curriculum before the students received their commissions. The Wabash was the flagship of the Mediterranean squadron, bearing the commission of Flag Officer E. A. F. LaVallette, at that time the highest rank in the navy. It sailed from Hampton Roads July 22, 1858, arriving at Gibraltar on August 15, and cruised from port to port in the Mediterranean until November, 1859.

On December 12, 1859, the Wabash arrived home and was docked for repairs at the Brooklyn navy yard. Dewey then obtained a three months' leave of absence which he spent at his home in Vermont. Afterward he served on the Powhatan and the Pawnee in a cruise to Caribbean and Gulf ports.

The Pawnee steamed into Charleston Harbor on her return trip just as the Civil war had started. Many southern officers and sailors resigned from the navy to join the Confederate forces. Dewey saw the possibility of a great conflict and returned to the naval academy to take his final examinations. This was in January, 1861.

He passed through the grades of midshipman and master and was then raised to the rank of lieutenant in April. After his final examination he was advanced to number three in his class and was a full-fledged naval officer.

On May 10, 1867, Dewey reported for duty on the old side-wheel Mississippi, on board which he served until she was fired upon and burned by the batteries of Fort Hudson in March, 1863. During his service on this ship he was brought in close touch with Melancthon Smith, then commander of the Mississippi, and with David G. Farragut, flag officer of the whole squadron maneuvering off New Orleans.

The fleet consisted of the screw sloops Hartford, Pensacola, Richmond and Brooklyn; the side-wheel Mississippi, the screw corvettes Onondaga, Veruna and Troquois; nine screw gunboats of five hundred tons each, and a mortar battery.

On the night of April 23, two red lights at the peak of the flagship signalled the other boats to follow her advance up the Mississippi river. It was necessary to pass under the fire of the two forts on the shore and to hulls, which the Confederates had put in the river to obstruct the pass.

Captain Smith of the Mississippi had opposed trying to make the run in the night. His plan was to steam up the forts at full steam in the daytime and each ship fight its way as it went, thus to eliminate the danger of running aground.

"I cannot see in the night," said Smith. "I am going to leave that to you, Dewey. You have younger eyes." Dewey commanded the ship from the hurricane deck. When the vessels were near the opposite bank they came to a dangerous shoal. The forts were located on top of the bluffs where they could direct a downward fire on the fleet, while the ships were forced to shoot upward.

The old Mississippi on account of her side wheels and draught was much too large a ship to ascend this part of the river. It had an experienced pilot at the wheel, but when the enemy's guns began pounding her her with telling effect the pilot could see nothing save the pall of smoke and the flashes of light. He steamed slowly, feeling his way as he approached the shoal. When he thought it was passed successfully he shouted out, "Full speed ahead!" As it turned out the Mississippi sailed into the shoal full on and struck just as she had developed a powerful momentum. She ran hard aground and listed. The Confederates trained their guns on the unfortunate frigate and made the most of her distress. Finally the ship was set on fire by the bursting shells and the crew was forced to abandon it. Captain Smith in a later report on the battle, said:

"I consider that I should be neglecting a most important duty should I omit to mention the coolness of my executive officer, George Dewey, and the steady, fearless and gallant manner in which this officer and the men under him defended the Mississippi and the orderly and quiet manner in which they abandoned her, a great deal of which was due to the discipline practiced by the men under Dewey's training.

With the taking of Vicksburg in July by the Federal army, Port Hudson fell in consequence. There was no longer any need of a naval force on the river. Dewey was ordered to report to Rear Admiral Dahlgren, who was in charge of the blockade off Charleston, S. C. The blockading was inactive and Dewey obtained a leave of absence to his home in Vermont.

On his return to service Dewey was placed in command of the Agawan, a fair sized river steamer fitted with a few guns. The Agawan captured the Confederate battery at Fort Mico Creek and added the Federal troops on various skirmishes along the river front. Later on Dewey was appointed executive officer on board the Colorado and took part in both her operations against Fort Fisher in 1865. A promotion made Dewey the lieutenant commander of the Kearsarge when the war ended. After the war Dewey served on a vessel in the European squadron, and from time to time was assigned to various duties at different coasting stations.

He was promoted to commander in April, 1872, then in his 35th year. In September, 1884 he was raised to the rank of captain and was made a commodore on February 8, 1896.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war in 1898, Dewey assumed command of the Asiatic squadron. The fleet lay in the harbor of Hong Kong on April 19 when it received an order to prepare for battle. The ship's painters in one day changed the snow-white garb of peace for the sombre gray of war.

On April 25 war was declared between the United States and Spain, and at the request of the Governor of Hong Kong the American fleet steamed away. On April 25 Dewey received orders to commence operations at once, particularly against the Spanish fleet, then cruising about the Philippine Islands. The American fleet headed direct for Manila.

The squadron was made up of the following vessels:

Cruisers Olympia, flagship; Boston, Concord, the Petrel, Raleigh and the Baltimore. All of these vessels were speedy, but in making the journey to the Philippines a speed of only eight knots was maintained, for the transports accompanying them could not make fast headway against the rolling sea.

During the run Dewey kept the men busy with gun drills and other exercises, and every minute was employed in earnest preparation for the expected conflict. Saturday morning, April 30, Luzon was sighted. Chairs, tables, chests and boxes were thrown overboard as the ships were stripped and made ready for battle.

It was learned that the Spanish fleet was in Manila Bay. On Saturday night, April 30, the very day that he arrived at the islands, Dewey proceeded through the dangerous channels of Manila Bay. The shore was dotted with forts and the waters were thick with mines. All realized the perils of this undertaking, and few there were who did not expect the ship leading the line of advance to be blown up at any moment.

The forts failed to discover the enemy, and Dewey kept straight on. The narrowest point of the inlet was passed, and still the entering fleet had not been discovered. But where was the enemy? It was fourteen minutes past 11 when a rocket was sent up by one of the forts and from the west came a flash of light and the heavy boom of a cannon. The battle was on.

Darkness hung over the bay as the gray fleet exchanged shots with the incompetent gunners of the forts. A strict lookout was kept for the Spanish torpedo boats. The speed of the American fleet was reduced to three knots and great caution was taken to avoid the death-dealing mines supposed to be so numerous in the harbor. When the morning sun rose—there, right before the American ships and under the guns of Cavite, lay the Spanish fleet. It consisted of seven cruisers, five gunboats, and two torpedo boats. The Americans had two gunboats, four cruisers and one cutter.

The Spanish were assisted by the powerful land batteries, as well as by their knowledge of the surrounding waters. The batteries of Cavite and of the Reina Cristina, Admiral Montejó's flagship, opened with their guns on the American fleet, which, however, kept on its course.

When within 5,000 yards of the Spanish fleet the word was given to fire. The battle line passed the whole length of the Spanish fleet, which had remained at anchor. The Spanish replied, but most of their shots went astray and very little damage was done to Dewey's fleet. The American line swung around and sailed past the Spaniards again, keeping up a deadly flow of shells. While the battle was on the Reina Cristina moved out of the Spanish line and headed direct for the American flagship. The Olympia hurled a tornado of steel into the approaching vessel, which riddled with shot and with great gaping holes in her side, turned and made for the shore.

Meanwhile the Raleigh had disabled two of the Spanish cruisers. The Petrel in like manner had engaged in a fight with two torpedo boats. One of these sought refuge in a small inlet, where her crew abandoned her and she was blown to pieces by the guns of the Petrel. The other torpedo boat braved the shot and shell and advanced to within 500 yards of the Olympia, threatening the flagship with its deadly torpedoes. The Petrel sent a shell into the Spaniard. An explosion took place and the little vessel went silently to the bottom.

The Baltimore entered into battle with the Castilla and left the latter a blazing wreck.

When the fighting stopped for the night commanders of the various vessels came aboard the Olympia to report to Dewey. It was learned that not a ship was disabled, not a cannon out of order, not a man killed or injured.

Many miraculous escapes were narrated, and it was remarked that but for the hand of Providence and the poor marksmanship of the Spaniards, protracted serious casualties.

At daybreak the battle was renewed. Admiral Montejó had meanwhile transferred his flag to the Isla de Cuba. The Baltimore, ignorant of the change of flagships, advanced to within 2,500 yards of the Reina Cristina, the former flagship. The American cruiser fired a broadside into her opponent, and when the smoke cleared away the Spaniard's bow shot high into the air and her hull sank gradually beneath the waves.

The Baltimore, assisted by the Raleigh and the Olympia, sent a concentrated volley into the Isla de Austria, which met with the same fate as her sister ship, the Reina Cristina. The Petrel finished the gunboat El Correo, while the Concord brought to an end the career of the General Lezo. The Boston put a few broadsides into the Velasco, which responded but feebly and finally sank. The Boston then joined the Olympia in an attack upon the Don Antonio de Ulloa. The Spanish commander, Rabion, stuck to his post to the last and went down on his ship with colors flying.

Another Spanish vessel gave the signal of surrender. When the McCulloch approached to take possession the Spaniard fired a broadside at the cutter. Instantly every American ship trained fire on the Spanish vessel. When the smoke finally faded away all that remained of the Spaniard was a half-submerged wreck filled with dead men.

Ship after ship of the Spanish fleet was either sunk or disabled, until Admiral Montejó, on the half-sinking Isla de Cuba, took down his colors and sought refuge on shore. On the flagstaff of the Cavite arsenal was raised a white flag, at the sight of which the American sailors cheered themselves hoarse. The battle of Manila Bay had been fought and won.

Commodore Dewey had completely annihilated the Spanish squadron without the loss of a single American life and with no men seriously and only six slightly wounded. None of the American ships suffered injury beyond repair. On the Spanish side the following vessels had either been burned or sunk:

Reina Cristina, Castilla, Don Antonio de Ulloa, Don Juan de Austria, Isla de Luzon, Isla de Cuba, El Correo, Velasco and Isla de Mindanao. The Spaniards lost more than six hundred men.

Immediately upon receipt of the news at Washington Dewey was promoted to Rear Admiral and thanked by resolution of Congress. In 1899 Dewey was made a member of the United States Philippine Commission, and on March 2 of the same year was appointed Admiral of the Navy, the highest possible rank. Later he was President of the Navy General Board.

Admiral Dewey married Miss Susie Goodwin, daughter of Governor Lechard Goodwin of New Hampshire, on October 24, 1867. She died December 23, 1872. His second wife was Mrs. Mildred (McLean) Hazen, of Washington, whom he married November 9, 1899.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, Jan. 10.—Fred Fulton has arrived!

When he hung his bony left mauler on the jaw of Tom Cawley in their recent bout here and dropped him for the count in the first round, he proved that he can hit.

He also proved that he has a punch in both hands; that he knows something about boxing and can handle himself in the ring.

Some will say Fulton drew a lemon when he drew Cawley.

But wait! Cawley is a rather tough customer.

Fulton is the only boxer in this country who has never knocked him cold except Jack Dillon. The hoosier found Cawley's massive jaw and big

NEW FEATURES PLANNED FOR ELKS' BALL

ANNUAL EVENT TO BE HELD IN FEBRUARY PROMISES TO BE THE BEST OF THE ELKS' SUCCESSSES.

As stated by one of the members of the committee last evening judging from the great demand made for tickets for the annual Elks' Ball, to be held in Freeman's Hall on Feb. 14, this season's efforts promise to be the most successful in the history of the order. The committee has been working hard in their efforts to present now and interesting features and they are sparing no expense to make the 1917 ball a success.

And say—don't think this Fulton person can't hit. When he drove his left across the punch didn't travel over twenty inches. But the impact on Cawley's jaw sounded like the blow from a sledge hammer against a stone wall. Cawley simply wilted and fell in a heap. He was knocked out as cleanly as any fighter who ever took the count.

Previous to the punch that put Tom out, Fulton had landed a solid right apparent to the jaw that dropped Mr. Cawley on his haunches. He took the count of eight. Few other fighters would have gotten up at all. That is why we say Cawley is tough.

Ever since Porky Flynn outboxed him in New Orleans Fulton has been on the pan. He has been looked upon as a joke. He has been the target for the jokes of sport writers all over the country. And up to the time of the Cawley fight he had really shown little worth while except the bowling over of Anne Anderson in Milwaukee. Anderson wasn't conceded to have any class at all.

But now Fulton has a just claim to recognition. And there is little doubt but what he will get it.

According to Fulton and his manager Frank Force, Jess Willard has promised to meet the Minnesota plater if he beats Frank Moran. Fulton is sure that he can whip the Pittsburgh blonde. If they meet in New York over the ten round route, the man from Minnesota believes he can beat Moran decisively, although he doesn't say he will knock him out. If they meet in Havana with forty rounds for the distance, Fulton is sure he will drop Moran for the count.

If he meets and defeats Moran he will have the right to demand a fight with Willard. And the little public will back him up.

Fulton was a bit cocky after he dropped Cawley. He talked freely.

"The public will realize that I can fight after I meet Frank Moran. And you can say also that I have no fear of a match with Willard. I have boxed with Jess and I know what he can do. I dropped him one time in a gymnasium. It was easy enough. Since that time he has kept away from me.

"But now that I have his promise of a match if I show the public that I have the goods, watch my smoke. I'll win if I ever get Willard into the ring."

Fulton talks rather chesty. He is the most confident contender we have ever seen. But confidence goes a long way. Far be it from us to predict that Fulton will have an easy time if he tackles Willard. He will find himself up against the biggest and toughest customer he has ever faced.

But we will predict this: If Willard doesn't keep in shape he will be in great danger of losing his skypiece. If he waits too long and allows himself to grow heavy he will find the fat much harder to take off and he will not be the man he was when he fought Jack Johnson.

Fulton is far from being a joke. He deserves consideration as a contender. If he beats Moran decisively he will look mighty sweet against Willard. Don't forget it.

THE NEAL INSTITUTE

Under New Ownership and Management.

The Neal Institute of New Hampshire, which was opened about two years ago at Manchester, has been taken over by new interests, who have placed it in the hands of a man of sterling integrity and principles, has already proven his worth in this line of work and is sure to make the same success of treating liquor and drug addicts in this state that he has elsewhere. He has made many improvements in the accommodations and the efficiency of the force of attendants, and today the Neal Institute of New Hampshire is not only the largest and finest equipped institute of its kind in New England, but one of the best in the matter of personnel of the attendants, who are thoroughly experienced and trained; and the patients are shown every attention possible during their stay at the institute.

GASOLINE AND KEROSENE IN H. C. L. JUMP

STANDARD OIL COMPANY RAISES PRICES ONE CENT BEGINNING TODAY WITH PROMISE OF FURTHER INCREASE

In continuation of the always expected rise in prices of commodities in these times the local agent of the Standard Oil Company announced yesterday afternoon that beginning with this morning the selling price of gasoline and kerosene advances one cent a gallon with the probability of a further advance within a few days. At the local garages gasoline has been selling at 26 cents a gallon and the new price of 27 cents will be asked of the purchaser when he calls today. Kerosene has been selling at 11-2 and 12 cents a gallon by local dealers. The price from today, until the next jump—will be 12-2 or 13 cents, depending on whether the purchaser takes it in one gallon or five gallon lots.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wetly Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wetly's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

NUMBER OF BILLS ARE INTRODUCED

JUDGE PAGE, COL. BARTLETT AND COL. PENDER PUT SEVERAL IMPORTANT MEASURES BEFORE LAW MAKERS ON TUESDAY.

Concord, Jan. 15.—In the house this forenoon Representative John H. Bartlett of Portsmouth introduced a number of important bills, several of which were of state-wide interest. One will be known as the "Bartlett 54-hour bill." It differs from the March 54-hour bill in that it provides 54 hours of labor for all employees, except domestic and agricultural, and gives employees the privilege of working two evenings a week. The bill is broad in its scope and will be sure to attract much attention, especially in labor circles.

would establish a bureau of labor, to be run under the direction of the commissioner of labor, with no additional expense except for a clerk. It provides for the registration of help at the state office or at branch offices established elsewhere, thus affording farmers and others the opportunity to secure help when needed.

Representative Bartlett offered a bill relating to pensions for police officers, authority to be vested in the board of aldermen of cities and selectmen of towns to grant such pensions from one hundred to five hundred dollars, without referendum. The bill reduces the period of service for such pensions from 25 years to twenty years.

Pender of Portsmouth introduced a bill prohibiting the throwing of grass on public highways and bathing beaches. This bill will be of especial interest to automobile owners. It carries with it a fine of fifty dollars for violation of the act.

Wendell of Dover offered a bill to construct a state highway to be known as the "New Hampshire College boulevard." Its object being to afford an outlet through such towns as Madbury, Stratham, Newfields and East Kingston for the New Hampshire state college at Durham.

Mr. Scherens of Laconia introduced a bill to establish the "New Hampshire Board of Accountancy," to consist of three persons appointed by the governor, who shall be skilled as accountants.

Another of Representative Bartlett's bills introduced today provides for the encouragement of bravery of police officers, firemen and sheriffs. This bill provides that in case of fatal injury sustained in the discharge of their duties their estate may be granted compensation in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Mr. Bartlett also introduced a bill to prevent the sale of "disheveled" meat slaughtered within the state.

The committee on labor met this forenoon and elected Representative Harry of Manchester clerk.

Caucuses to Name Certain State Officers.

Immediately after the adjournment this noon the Republican and Democratic caucuses for the nomination of candidates for secretary of state, state treasurer and commissary-general were held.

The Republican caucus was held in Representatives' hall. John Pender of Portsmouth was chairman and Harold A. Webster of Holderness was secretary. The following nominations were unanimously made: Secretary of state, Edwin C. Bean; state treasurer, John W. Plummer; commissary-general, Charles W. Howard.

The Democratic caucus organized by the choice of John T. Dodge of Laconia chairman, and Robert C. Murphree of Concord secretary. A committee on nominations was appointed consisting of Connor of Manchester, Murphree of Concord, and Tilton of Tilton, who reported as follows:

Secretary of state, Cyprien J. Hennessey of Manchester; state treasurer, William H. Moses of Tilton; commissary-general, William H. Kimball of Stratford. The report of the committee was adopted.

The election of state officers will be held tomorrow afternoon in joint convention and will be by ballot.

Many committee meetings are being held this afternoon.

The first full meeting of Governor Keyes and council was held this forenoon. Representative Carroll of Warren who has been ill since the beginning of the session was present.

It was somewhat expected that the governor and council would make certain appointments today, but none took place, routine business only being transacted.

Representative Carroll returned home immediately after the meeting. Another session will be held tomorrow forenoon.

Interest Displayed in Proposed Change in Primary Law.

TAXES DEMANDED OF CLUBS FOR POOL TABLES

NEW LAW AFFECTS EVERY ORGANIZATION HAVING POOL OR BILLIARD TABLES, OR BOWLING ALLEYS

Under the new law all social clubs, fraternal organizations, Y. M. C. A.'s, Elks' Clubs, lodges and churches owning pool tables, billiard tables, or bowling alleys must make a return to the collector of internal revenue and pay a special tax. This law is a change from the previous law which exempted from taxation all organizations owning tables and alleys which were restricted to members of the club, lodge, or organization and were not open to the public, the old law holding them not taxable. The new law, as worked in section 27, 8th paragraph, follows:

"Proprietors of bowling alleys, and billiard rooms shall pay $5 for each alley or table. Every building or place where bowls are thrown or where games of billiards or pool are played, except in private homes, shall be regarded as a bowling alley or billiard room, respectively."

This law will affect a number of organizations in this city including the Y. M. C. A., Elks, Warwick Club, P. A. C., L. B. A. C., P. C. M. club and others, and the tax on tables and alleys must be paid to the collector in January for the six months' period, or penalties will be due. Seth W. Jones, collector for this district, announced last evening that he was notifying all organizations in the district of the new law and asked the cooperation of officers of the organizations to assist in getting the returns to his office in order to avoid penalties. In the announcement of the collector the following notice was sent out:

"The first tax will be for six months from January 1, 1917, in the amount of $25 for each alley or table, by certified check, money order or cash, with the Form 11A, properly made out under oath. Tax will be due July 1, 1917 for a full year for each table and alley at $5 each."

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but it is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way.

THOMAS MOTT OSBORNE
A NAVAL "PRISONER"

Former Warden of Sing Sing, With Professor McCormick, Confined on the Southery--Will Go to Naval Prison this Afternoon

Garbed in prison gray, tagged with a number, and guarded by an armed U. S. Marine, Thomas Mott Osborne, late warden of Sing Sing Prison, and John McCormick, professor of political science at Bowdoin College, will, for the next few days, experience the treatment that the Navy Department administers to the class of men least respected in the service—a deserter—while being confined at the U. S. Naval Prison at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. For the first time in his long career in connection with prison life Ex-Warden Osborne is actually learning by experience just what a prison must feel at forced confinement. Mr. Osborne, and Professor McCormick, in company with Mr. Osborne's secretary, Harry Brosky of New York, were taken on board the U. S. S. Southery, Tuesday afternoon, dressed in the prison uniform. The former warden was booked as "Tom Brown, deserter." Professor McCormick as "John Austin, deserter" and Mr. Brosky as a detentioner.

The three "prisoners" were subjected to a thorough physical examination by Surgeon A. H. Dodge, U. S. N., for evidence of contagious diseases, were bathed, and assigned to prison quarters as ordinary prisoners. Later in the afternoon, in company with the other detentioners on board the prison ship went to the laundry and washed their own clothing, performing the other tasks set out for men confined on board. At supper time they sat with the other prisoners, eating their fare and retired for the night at the time set by the regulations in their quarters.

Today "Brown" and "Austin" will be removed to the Naval Prison to start their "term" as "deserters." This will last for several days during which they will be subjected to the same treatment accorded men confined in the big prison for the real offense of desertion. They will be introduced to the rock pile, work at cleaning up the yard, cutting ice, and such other tasks as must be performed by the prisoners. It is with the consent of Secretary of the Navy Daniels that the former reform warden is "serving time" at the Naval Prison, which is all in connection with the secretary's determination to ascertain the value and merits of the prison, which has been doubted by many officials in Washington. Mr. Osborne has been detailed by the secretary to conduct a thorough and searching investigation into conditions here, the only naval prison in the country, and after careful consideration between them it was concluded that no better method could be employed than that of learning from actual experience just what treatment is accorded the prisoners.

During their confinement in the Naval Prison "Brown" and "Austin" will keep a careful record of the conditions the prison fare, and their treatment, for their report to the secretary which will be made within a few weeks. The conditions at the detention ship will be recorded by Mr. Brosky, secretary to Mr. Osborne, who will be retained on board for several days as a detentioner. It is understood that the other prisoners will not be acquainted with the status of "Brown" and "Austin," and they will in this way be able to learn much which will eventually be of value to the department through their reports.

It was first intended that Mr. Osborne be the guest of Chief Boatswain William L. Hill, U. S. N., commander of the U. S. S. Southery, during his investigation; to live at his quarters and spend his time in looking over the situation from the outside. The method adopted was only adopted after careful consideration as to the best plan for getting at the true worth of the naval prison system. Much will depend on the report of Mr. Osborne as to the final disposition of the naval prison system. Late last fall Mr. Osborne was selected by Secretary Daniels to carry out an investigation of the system and he made a preliminary report on his findings. This report was alleged to have been made public semi-officially, as very adverse, with the recommendation that the Naval Prison be abandoned as such, the building to be placed at some other purpose. Later this alleged report was denied and the actual report made to the secretary has not been officially made public. Many suggestions and rumors as to the uses to which the big prison will be put in case its present use is discontinued have been circulated, but until the final report is made, after the present investigation, speculation will hold sway.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the young lady who help up that runaway horse at the depot on Tuesday showed some pluck.

That she knows a thing or two about a horse.

That the police must take their day off in the winter and spring.

That Tom Osborne, the former warden of Sing Sing, ought to get a good line on prison life in the navy, after a night on the Southery and in the naval prison.

That the aviator on the river had some experience on Tuesday that will be fresh in his memory for a while.

That there is rumor of a moving picture house on Daniel street.

That other rumors say it will be a business block.

That the Democrats and others are busy over the discharge of T. J. Kelly, a clerk in the street department.

That an invalid's chair is certainly one of the needs in the Boston and Maine depot.

That a large party of Boston men on their way to the ice fields on the Kennebec river were on a special car attached to the Pullman train on Tuesday night.

That they were a lively bunch and produced some vaudeville in the car while the train stopped at the station.

That they were decidedly handy with their feet.

That Dover is making a big fight for that $30,000 armory.

That bowling artists think the navy yard men should have put a team in the new inter-club league.

That it was never more quiet in police circles.

That the local public will welcome Charles W. Gray back in the coal business.

That Secretary Daniels can see plainly the advantage of building up the Portsmouth navy yard.

That he told the people of this city and the navy yard workmen what he was going to do and he has kept his word to the letter.

That the horsemen are in Dover today watching the big race between Helen of Troy, owned by L. E. Currier, and McCrully, owned by Frank R. Bennett, which took place at the Granite State Park there.

That the speedway in Portsmouth was going to be crowded with fast steppers when the snow came.

That all the local steeds must be under the care of veterinarians.

That no bill has yet been introduced by any Democratic member of the Portsmouth delegation in the legislature.

That some people believe the old city almshouse should stand and some attempt be made to locate a manufacturing firm there.
